1 WHEREAS, Attorney General Raúl Torrez has strongly advocated for 2 changing pre-trial release procedures, noting repeatedly that criminals
3 arrested for violent crimes – including those using a firearm – are routinely 4 detained pre-trial in the federal justice system but released and inadequately 5 monitored by the state justice system, saying through a spokesman, “In a very 6 real sense it’s not working because we are losing the public’s trust.” Santa Fe
7 New Mexican: Pre-trial risk-assessment tool: crutch or crystal ball?, January 8 30, 2023; and

9 WHEREAS, Attorney General Torrez, District Attorney Sam Bregman, and a 10 bipartisan group of lawmakers and representatives of police and prosecutors 11 have called for the creation of a rebuttable presumption of detention in cases 12 where a defendant has committed certain serious crimes, illegally used a 13 firearm, or has historically ignored court orders; and

14 WHEREAS, law enforcement leaders and chief prosecutors from across 15 New Mexico gathered for a crime summit in September 2023, hosted by the 16 Attorney General and held at the Greater Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce, 17 and described the challenges and daily disappointment of having to arrest and 18 try the same criminals over and over again due to rampant pre-trial release 19 and inadequate pre-trial monitoring; and

20 WHEREAS, Governor Michelle Lujan Grisham said in her 2022 State of the 21 State address, “The worst offenders, the most serious and dangerous 22 criminals in our state, need to be behind bars, simple as that. And we are 23 going to pass a law, this session, that will keep violent criminals behind bars
24 until justice can be done. We will put a wedge in the revolving door of violent 25 crime in New Mexico. The safety of our communities cannot be up for debate.” 26 (State of State speech, January 18, 2022); and

27 WHEREAS, The Albuquerque Journal’s editorial page featured an editorial:
28 “The government's main responsibility is to protect its citizens, but bail
29 reform, propped up by the Arnold Risk Assessment Tool, has done the exact 30 opposite. There is no secret as to what needs to happen to end "catch and 31 release." Bail reform needs to be repealed by the voters and the Arnold Risk 32 Assessment Tool needs to be sent back to where it came from. Judges' hands 33 need to be untied and they need to be required to once again do their own

1 individual risk assessment. Bail decisions should be made based on the 2 crime(s), criminal history, past failures to appear, and other important factors 3 that would add accountability back into the system. Anything short of this and 4 the crime saga will continue in New Mexico.” Albuquerque Journal: To fight 5 crime, reform NM’s failed bail reform, 6/7/2022; and

6 WHEREAS, state lawmakers have introduced a number of proposals to 7 alter the current system, but each effort has been tabled or otherwise defeated 8 in a legislative committee and rarely or never given the opportunity for an up-9 or-down vote on both the House and Senate floors.

10 BE IT MEMORIALIZED BY THE COUNCIL, THE GOVERNING BODY OF THE 11 CITY OF ALBUQUERQUE:

12 SECTION 1. The Albuquerque City Council urges the Governor of the State 13 of New Mexico to include pre-trial release and detention on the call during the 14 30-day legislative session.

15 SECTION 2. The Albuquerque City Council emphasizes the pressing need 16 for the New Mexico Legislature to conduct up-or-down votes in both chambers 17 on proposed legislation aimed at substantively reforming our state's current 18 pretrial detention system. Specifically, we urge the Legislature to enact 19 measures that provide stronger assurances regarding the pretrial detention of 20 individuals falling into high-risk categories. This includes repeat offenders, 21 those found illegally using firearms, and individuals charged with violent 22 crimes. The proposed legislation should prioritize holding such individuals in 23 jail prior to their trial, addressing a critical gap in our current legal framework.

24 SECTION 3. The City Clerk is directed to transmit copies of this Memorial to 25 the City of Albuquerque State Legislative Delegation, the Governor of New 26 Mexico, the New Mexico Legislature, the New Mexico Department of Public 27 Safety, the Administrative Office of the Courts, the New Mexico Attorney 28 General’s Office, and the Second Judicial District Attorney’s Office.
