RESOLUTION

Calling For A Study Of The Need For, Feasibility Of And Methodology Of Implementation Of Consolidating Public Safety Services Within The Incorporated And Unincorporated Areas Of Bernalillo County; Designating Funding For The Study (Lewis, Sanchez, Benton)

CALLING FOR A STUDY OF THE NEED FOR, FEASIBILITY OF AND METHODOLOGY OF IMPLEMENTATION OF CONSOLIDATING PUBLIC SAFETY SERVICES WITHIN THE INCORPORATED AND UNINCORPORATED AREAS OF BERNALILLO COUNTY; DESIGNATING FUNDING FOR THE STUDY.

WHEREAS, Bernalillo County has reached a population of 675,000, with the vast majority of that population (96%) residing in urban areas; and

WHEREAS, since 2008, the gross receipts and property taxes revenues that fund the services delivered by the City of Albuquerque and the County of Bernalillo have experienced slow, flat, or in some cases negative growth, straining the ability of these governments to provide necessary services; and

WHEREAS, the Bernalillo County Sheriff's Office, the Bernalillo County fire department, and the City of Albuquerque police and fire departments serve constituencies with similar demographics and often overlapping boundaries; and

WHEREAS, due to criteria set through national standards the aforementioned departments use substantially similar equipment to carry out their day-to-day tasks - from vehicles to service revolvers to firefighting equipment; and

WHEREAS, the provision of public safety services is among the most challenging tasks a community faces and expenditures for public safety are a substantial share of the budgets of both the City of Albuquerque and the County of Bernalillo; and

WHEREAS, these shared attributes between the Bernalillo County Sheriff's Office and the Albuquerque Police Department and the Bernalillo County Fire Department and the Albuquerque Fire Department provide an excellent opportunity for consolidating these four Departments under a regional public safety agency; and

WHEREAS, consolidation of service delivery by local public safety agencies has been a historical method of improving service delivery in growing urban areas starting from the consolidation of the City of Las Vegas, Nevada and Clark County Public Safety Agencies in 1954 to the merger of the Charlotte North Carolina Police Department and Mecklenburg County Sheriff's Office in 1993; and

WHEREAS, consolidation provides a higher volume of police services, lower response times, reduced overtime expenses, the elimination of duplication of effort, and lower overall operating costs. Consolidation allows first responders better access to needed resources, more training opportunities, greater flexibility in staffing, the ability to afford specialized apparatus equipment and to establish expert units; and

WHEREAS, the quality of delivery of public safety services is expected to rise under consolidation of agencies as a result of more efficient and coordinated use of staffing, more flexibility to meet hours of peak demand, enhanced training opportunities, improved management and supervision and more opportunities for advancement for first responders; and

WHEREAS, consolidation strategies can be tailored to a region's needs. Different variations include:

- Functional: agencies combine certain functional units, such as emergency communications, dispatch, or records.

- Cross Deputizing; establishment of mutual enforcement and response zones where agency jurisdictions overlap.

- Pooled Resources: agencies authorize each other's officers and fire fighters to pool resources and improve regional service delivery for example, permitting a city police officer to make arrests in the county and a sheriff's deputy to make arrests in the city.

- Unification: uniting all police, fire, and emergency medical services agencies under one umbrella into a single new entity.
